HLPF 2020: National CSO reporting & People's Scorecard

Oli Henman, Global Coordinator

Lessons learned from first 5 years (Progressing National SDGs implementation Report)

1. Majority of countries now provide space for formal stakeholder engagement
2. Most countries have provided a baseline of data
3. However 2019 saw a reduction in focus on means of implementation and financing
4. More countries refer to ‘leaving no one behind’ but actual targeted support is still insufficient
5. Limited demonstrable progress in the transformative potential of the 2030 Agenda
6. Member states still not making the most of mutual learning

A4SD Survey of Civil Society members

- Information sharing alone is not sufficient, real dialogue with civil society is needed- national consultation processes are not yet open, inclusive of all people, participatory and transparent
- Make ‘Leave No One Behind’ a higher priority
- Civil society partners demand the right to provide inputs to ‘whole of society’ reviews
- Particular improvements are needed at national and regional level, to include:
  - greater civil society coordination for analysis and dialogue
  - ongoing independent analysis of progress
  - citizen generated evidence
- Establish better links from regional to global level meetings
- Improve support to stakeholders, including resources and capacity development

People's Scorecard approach

- Conduct assessments with civil society partners, using citizen generated evidence and stakeholder insights on the progress of all 17 SDGs
- Consider availability of data as well as potential gaps in evidence, including identifying what official data exists plus cross-reference with local citizen generated data sources where possible
- Look at key Goals and principles and potential clusters around key issues for each country context.
